

Four-Year-Old Program

MISSION STATEMENT

First Pres Preschool provides an enriched Christian learning environment that encourages cognitive, social, and emotional development as children discover and explore the world around them. Our goal is to nurture a foundation that promotes independence and confidence as an introduction to lifelong learning.

CURRICULUM

The four-year-old curriculum offers a wide variety of age-appropriate activities and learning opportunities. It provides a balance of self-selected and teacher-directed activities, individual and large group activities, as well as indoor and outdoor experiences. Learning centers are provided that invite children to explore, experiment, create, and ask questions. Our program is committed to providing an innovative and developmentally appropriate curriculum to help prepare each child for his/her next school experience. We use the Illinois Early Education Learning Standards and NAEYC guidelines to validate our goals and targets for the students.

DAILY PROGRAM

There are two four-year-old classes, morning and afternoon, which meet four days a week, Monday through Thursday. The AM class meets 9:00-11:30am and the PM class meets 12:30-3:00pm.

- Group times involving calendar & weather activities, reading & memory recall & sequencing, music & creative movement, language and math experiences, print and phonemic awareness, graphing, and teacher themed lessons and projects.
- Daily activity or project to reinforce small motor skills, listening skills, cognitive skills, and independence.
- Center play where children choose their own activities: dramatic play, puzzles & books, blocks & Legos & math play, trucks & cars & trains, painting & free art projects, sensory table & science activities, writing & letter activities, and small manipulative play.
- Outdoor play on approved playground equipment in a park-like enclosed setting or indoor play on approved equipment in our gymnasium.
- Group snack time.

OBJECTIVES

At age four to five, social cognition is becoming evident in the ability to make social judgments on the basis of prior experience. Children at this age are able to use their observations of others, their own viewpoints, and their expectations of others to help shape their decision-making process. Social cognition allows four and five year olds to learn by sharing their own experiences and relating them to the subject at hand. Our preschool experience for this age group is still very 'hands on' allowing students to learn by involving themselves in exploring, discovering, and repeating lessons, ideas, and new concepts. We encourage cognitive learning in the areas of early math & patterning, phonics & pre-literacy, writing, science, and music along with opportunities for small and large group interaction, classroom responsibility, independence and self-confidence.

- Promote social skills such as respect, kindness, and empathy.
- Enhance self-esteem through individual accomplishment.
- Learn how to value another person's rights by teaching respect for others.
- Encourage cognitive development and reasoning skills.
- Encourage pre-literacy and early math skills.
- Strengthen small motor skills using scissors and independent projects.
- Develop an appropriate pattern of dependence and independence.
- Foster a sense of continuity between school and the outside world.
- Create a place of community, teamwork, and friendship.
- Explore creativity and self-expression.
